Gridiron Battle, Dance Top Busy Homecoming Day

By GIL DEAN

It's King Football's big night tomorrow. A full program is planned for the upwards of 5000 students and old grads who are expected to flock to Cox Stadium for the State-Cal Aggie grid battle.

In addition to the game the following is on the night's agenda:

1.) All-City punting and passing contest to be held before the game and at half time.

2.) Annual Block S Society dance presented at the State gym immediately after the football contest.

3.) The presentation of the Homecoming queen.

The Gater grid men gave a storm warning to the invading farmers from Cal Aggies by winning a nerve twanging 26-20 triumph over Humboldt State last week.

Going into the Lumberjack contest the Gaters had their sights on the Aggies. They knew tomorrow night's encounter would decide the snarled Far Western Conference title hunt this season.

On seasonal records the Aggies should rate as favorites. They have dropped two tilts but both were to well loaded elevens, Santa Barbara State and Occidental. The State ledger reads a win over Humboldt; a tie with Southern Oregon and losses to Chico, Whittier and Cal Poly.

This year football isn't going by the book of comparative scores, and it won't tomorrow night.

The Block S Society dance, the second big feature of the evening, will feature Jacke Blue and his orchestra. Blue has recently concluded an engagement at the Lake Merritt Hotel in Oakland, and has appeared at the Claremont in Berkeley. He will feature as his vocalist Gil Vester, a former recording artist with the Del Courtney group. The dance will conclude at 1 a.m.

Charles White, president of the Block S Society said the victor in the balloting for Homecoming queen will reign over the festivities. To each of the other contestants will go a gardenia, compliments of the Block Society.

The passing and punting contest will bring 20 entrants from the high schools of the city. The passers will commence the evening at 7:15. At half time the punters will display their talent. Two cups will be awarded and the San Francisco News is sponsoring a special perpetual trophy as an added award. Coach Ward Carr, of the College Physical Education Department is in charge of this affair.

At Arcata last Saturday the Gaters overpowered the Lumberjacks to a much greater extent than the score indicates. The line defense, long the team's weakness, worked as a solid unit for the first time this year. Behind them a deceptive, coldly precise backfield, with Sam DeVito and Don Lowart sharing honors as signal callers, bewildered the Lumbermen with off-tackle thrusts and needle-threading passes.

Future Programs Discussed By NSA At District Parley

Representatives of the University of California, Stanford, Santa Clara, St. Mary's California College of Fine Arts and Crafts, College of Holy Names and Mills met at San Francisco State College campus last Sunday in a National Student Association district conference to discuss area projects. Problems discussed related to:

1. Student-faculty relations.
2. Student tours to foreign countries at a low rate.
3. The selling of tickets to activities at other schools.
4. An intercollegiate choral festival to be held at the San Francisco Opera House.

Prime consideration was given to the Purchase Card System whereby students will be able to buy basic consumer items (food, clothing, drugs etc.) at reduced rates. A survey of living accommodations and working conditions of students is now being conducted here to determine student needs. The Bay Area chairman of the Purchase Card committee is Nan Broderick of the University of California. William J. Hurley of San Francisco State College is co-chairman.

The general theme of NSA for the year is "A Work Year" which was emphasized at the meeting.

Gater Miscues On Election, Apologizes

An erroneous report in the Golden Gater last Friday stated that Shirley Muzio was defeated for the office of Freshman treasurer. Miss Muzio did emerge as winner by a vote of 86 to 35 over her opponent, Anne Bryan.

Drama Continues at Burk; Matinee Today

College Theatre's production, "The Inspector General," continues its run tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 at Frederic Burk Auditorium.

Last Thursday night, in its initial performance, the play was attended by a two-thirds capacity audience. On Friday, nearly the same number attended. Saturday night, the play was greeted by a near-capacity audience.

A special matinee of the play is being held this afternoon at Frederic Burk at 3. Price for this showing is 50 cents with a student membership card.

Staters Attend Art Meeting

The San Francisco Women Artists presented a forum on modern art last Monday evening at the San Francisco Museum of Art in Civic Center.

The curriculum of the school is offered to regular college students during their third and fourth years of college study. A new office for the school was established in Room 210, College Hall.

The subject to be written upon is: "The Public's Stake in Full Freedom of Information." A prize of $500 will be awarded to the winner. All entries must be made by January 10, 1950.

For further information contact Miss Phiz Mezey in the Golden Gater office, Hut 4-B.

Parking Rules at Stadium Listed

For those who don't have personal transportation to get back and forth from Cox Stadium at the new campus to the Women's Gym on the old campus, take the M car, which runs along Market Street, or the 19th Avenue bus.

No parking will be allowed inside the ne wcampus for the football game. There is plenty of parking space on 19th Avenue and Merced Boulevard. Guards will be on hand at the gates to enforce regulations.

Fatter Franciscan For '50 Planned

The 1950 Franciscan took a jump ahead recently with the announcement by Editor Evelyn Petersen that it would have eight additional pages.

At a staff meeting held last Monday, it was disclosed that arrangements had been made such that the annual would be supplemented with action photos of campus activities, not necessarily connected with any organization.

Four petitions were accepted by the Board of Publications to boost the number of Franciscan staff members. They are: Charles Barnes, Louise Lindsay, editorial assistants; Joan Lowrey, WAA sports editor; and Honofre S. Megino, activities editor.

Plans are presently under way, Miss Petersen stated, for the actual campaign of the yearbook.

All-Out Effort For New Campus

Mr. Roy Petrie, instructor in education, stated last week that all eight major divisions of State College are working hard to make the ne wcampus one of the best in California.

Mr. Petrie is helping Dean Butler in co-ordinating all the divisions so each can be of aid to the other. He also hopes the new college will be finished within the next year or two.

Mr. Petrie came here from Stanford to take over the job of Supervisor of Elementary School Teachers, who are working as assistants in San Francisco schools. He said the need for good teachers is still in demand in San Francisco.

Audio-Visual Equipment Available to Students

For the first time since the Audio-Visual department was formed, campus organizations will be permitted to use slides and films for meetings, announced Tom O'Conner, student assistant of the department at Frederic Burk.

"Many interesting films slides, and other photo equipment are available in our office. Other films may be ordered upon request," O'Conner stated.

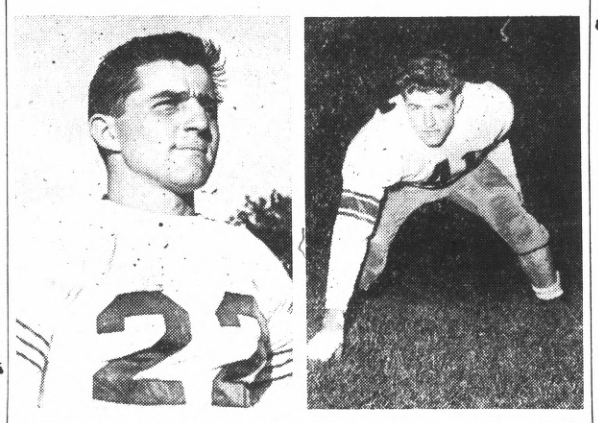
Among the condensed novels on file is "Song of Bernadette." Books on psychology and science and some biographies are also obtainable.

Fireman's Ball Next Dance

Delta Phi Gamma, service fraternity, will sponsor their annual Firemen's Ball next Friday night. Jimmy Polis and his orchestra will play for the event.

Dancing will proceed immediately after the football game with Occidental and continue until 1.

Sophomore Sock



EFFECTIVE UPSTARTS—A pair of newcomers to their respective squads who will add much to the success of the two contestants in tonight's Homecoming Game are sophomores Frank Saviez, left, of Cal Aggies, and Bob Engler, right, of State. Saviez, who starts at fullback, has booted seven out of nine successful conversions this season, while Englir is making a strong bid for all-conference tackle honors.

E D I T O R I A L

Support Your Light Fund

One year ago on October 28, 1948, to be exact, Cox Stadium was inaugurated on the new campus and dedicated in honor of a modest, capable and deserving State faculty member—Mr. David J. Cox. chairman of the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. For the first time in its history, the Gater grid team fought it out with Chico State on its own football turf at night under arc-light installations costing $7500.

The lighting system which makes the arena unique among football stadiums in San Francisco was made possible when Mr. Cox willingly signed a personal check for that amount. At the time, he was thinking of the benefits the college would gain through the addition of lights to the field. The money loaned was to be reimbursed, so he was promised by the administration, from rentals and from alumni donations. Since then a light fund drive was begun.

As a result of the Fruit Bowl game played at the Kezar Stadium with the Southern University of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, on December 5 last year, State received $4500 clear from gate receipts. The whole amount was given to the light fund.

Tomorrow night, the homecoming game will be played at the Cox Stadium with Cal-Aggies. Candidates sponsored by the various campus organizations will compete for the coveted title of Homecoming Queen. The lady selling the most votes will be crowned winner. All proceeds gained from the affair will go to the light fund.

The real outcome of the money-raising venture will depend entirely upon the support and response of each and everyone of the students. In purchasing a vote (ten cents) for a candidate, it must be borne in mind that you are not only trying to push her onward in the race but that you are also helping the college in its financial difficulties. In addition ,your act is a manifestation of the kind of spirit and gratitude a loyal Stater has for a deed done for the college's favor.

"It is better to give than to receive," so the adage goes. Therefore, give heartily to the light fund by purchasing a vote for your Homecoming Queen candidate; let's move one step further with our usual unfaltering college spirit!—H.M.

EDITORIAL

LET'S WELCOME TEAM

After some three weeks on a rather bumpy football road, State's gridders return home to roost tomorrow night. It will be Homecoming game at Cox Stadium.

We know as well as the next coach the difficulty of plugging a none-too-winning team; but now that the squad finally cracked the win column last week, we need not do any plugging from here. Enough is to say the team is "high" for this one.

Injuries, lack of team support, being away from home, we need not cite the reasons why the team hasn't won more games. What the observer is concerned with is results, and there is where we have to blush a little.

Tomorrow night, however, we need not primarily concern ourselves with results; for as is more often the rule, the endeavor is more noble than the result. In concise language, tomorrow night is the gridders' night, the one night of the scholastic year that really belongs to them. And it is the one night that they would very much appreciate your support.

We are not intending to hound you in this space with a lot of rah rah journalism, but only to remind you that a lot of effort has gone into making tomorrow night one of the big nights of the year. Besides the game, there will be a homecoming dinner for the alumni and a dance following the game. Presentation of a trophy to the outstanding State gridder in the Cal Aggie contest will also be part of the ceremonies, besides the crowning of the State queen.

So perhaps the team has lost a few; but, after all, all you can ask of them is their best. You can bet your Rose Bowl that's what they'll give you tomorrow night.

Sounds like a fine time for a fine cause. What do you say we all show up? —THE EDITORS.

Long Overworked

Office Workers Merit Praise

Every organization on campus has had some publicity in the past. Some more than others, true, but all have had some. There is another group, though, unorganized in the strictest sense of the word, which remains all but forgotten. We refer to the "civilian" personnel—departmental clerks, secretaries and general staff.

The increase in the number of students over pre-war years has, in some cases, doubled and tripled the amount of work thrust upon these people. Some personnel adjustments have been made as the load increased, but not enough because of the financial difficulties involved. Everyone, from President Leonard to the junior clerks has rallied to the challenge presented by overcrowded facilities and a pared school budget.

A mere "thanks" to these people seems hardly adequate. It won't pound a typewriter nor act as a pair of slippers or an easy chair. But we can say we're glad they work here and not some place else. We can keep our fingers crossed for the school budget presented to legislature by President Leonard last Tuesday, hoping that it will emerge from the trial in its original health. We can also look back over the 14 years of faithful service from Mrs. Eva Hodgson in the Admissions Office, wishing her a speedy and complete recovery, hoping she will be back with us soon.—J. B.

The HEPPER SIDE

MUSICAL NOTES

By LUISA HEPPER

Attention all Knuths (Doc, Mrs. and junior editions): Thanks, thanks, thanks for your generosity and genial, much-appreciated hospitality at the recent bean feed. Signed, the Music Fed.

P.S. Again a five-chime Hepper rating for all who participated in food, fun and entertainment — both students and faculty.

Careful, Knuths, you're creating a demand for tradition! We love it!

Although most good things are taken for granted, some of them never let us down. For instance, it's about time credit is given to those hard-working musicians in Composers' Workshop. Their latest feat is music especially created for "The Inspector General," produced this week-end and last by Dick Glyer of Creative Arts. (Hurry—tomorrow's the last night!)

Among selections for the show are those written by Helmuth Dusedau, Bruce Reeter, Bob Searle and Walt Tolleson.

Welcomed back on campus is State grad, Scott O'Neal. Now on the full time music faculty list, Scott is a former San Jose Symphony member. He also did graduate work with Darius Milhaud and taught at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

One of O'Neal's activities at State is the supervision of student concerts scheduled each Friday from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. in Annex B-9. Open to the entire student body, these programs encourage instrumentalists and vocalists to be heard informally.

Billed for today is the A Cappella Choir, directed by Roy Freeburg and several student conductors. The singers will give a preview of their public concert slated for 3 p.m. Sunday in Glide Memorial Methodist Church, Ellis and Taylor Streets.

Hepper rating of four musical chimes to Anne O'Connell, Dick Gray, Shirley Gray, Frank Montoro, Joy Giblin and Sid Gordon for their excellent leadership of the choir.

Instead of the usual one student leader, the policy this term affords the opportunity to several members. Results are very satisfactory!

Note: Gordon's arrangement of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again" is clever and strictly modern — minor triad plus added sixth, dontcha know! It marches straight into the "hit" classification.

Opening Nite

Actors Rescue Inspect. General

By ELAINE PLASBERG

The village mayor, whom an unsatisfied constituent describes as the "son of a turkish acrobat," sparkled College Theatre's presentation of "The Inspector General" last Saturday night. Edwin Sirianni as the mayor, Eleanor Webster as his wife, and Arthur Hedburg as the pompous clerk, turned an only adequate play into an entertaining evening.

The broad comedy of the play and the length of the individual speeches did not satisfy an audience accustomed to realism and subtlety, an audience which has not been educated in the appreciation of plays of this type. Gogol's dislike of people showed clearly in his farcical exposition of human nature, and his philosophy somewhat resembled the satires of Shaw, Ibsen and Chekov.

The cast deserves plaudits, regardless of the play's quality. They presented it in a highly amusing and enjoyable manner.

Arthur Hedburg culminated a fine performance with a well acted drunk scene and received the audience's hearty applause. Particularly good was the proposal scene between Hedburg and Eleanor Webster, and the laugh scene between her and Edwin Sirianni, in which some excellent reciprocal and co-operative acting was witnessed. The cast, throughout the play, got the most out of every line.

"The Inspector General" was well directed and the lengthy speeches were offset by the stage movements of the other players. The ensemble, and especially the muted violins, created an ethereal air which added much to the performance.

The final act was fast moving and filled with action, and more than compensated for the slowness of the preceding scenes.

The College Theatre is certainly to be commended upon turning a dull play into an evening of excitement.

The play will be presented again tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 at Frederic Burk auditorium. Admission, including tax, is 60 cents with a student membership card, and 90 cents without.

Radio News

Guild Doing Needed Work

By ARTHUR DUFFY

The College's Radio Guild is an active group. Over and beyond their familiar daily newscasts on campus, guild members are performing needed services for State College and the community of San Francisco.

The Guild, handicapped by a slim budget, compensates for lack of funds by using initiative and extended effort. For instance, guild members make the most of their own sound equipment, using the clatter of two boards for a gun-shot effect.

GUILD CHEERS VETS

A shining example of the guild's many efforts are its frequent trips to Letterman Hospital. Last term, they carried sound equipment and accessories to Letterman broadcasting system, and presented dramatic plays and comedies.

"You'd be surprised how much those fellows appreciated our visit," Tom Maxwell, guild business manager, remarked. "The veterans aren't getting the shows they had during the war."

Tom Maxwell and Jack Kalman are currently working on Christmas plays. Kalman's "Story of a Dime," a dramatic tale, will be broadcast at Letterman. It will then be recorded along with Maxwell's "Imp of Christmas," a story for children, containing four dialects, which makes it a test for radio actors.

PLAYS WORTH EFFORT

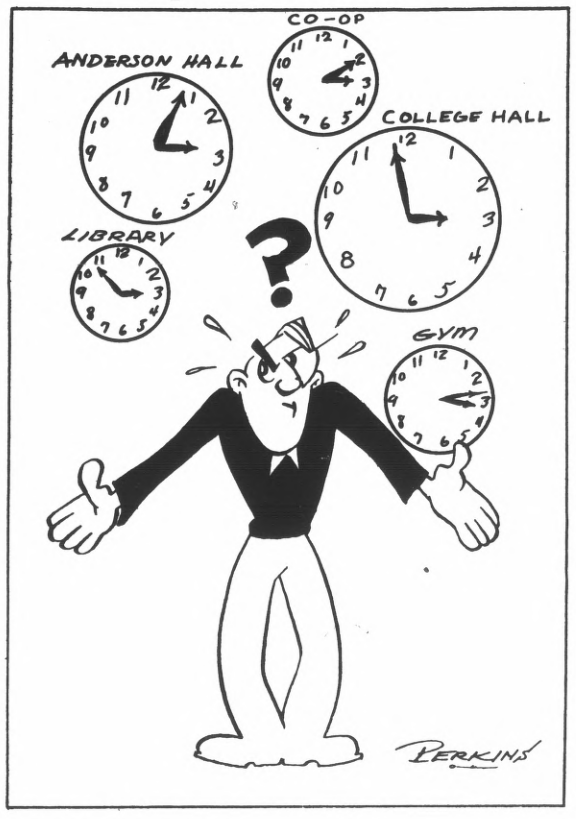
The enjoyment these plays will bring to children makes them well worth the effort, guild writers feel. All guild presentations are from original manuscripts.

"One of the hardest parts in writing a script, Maxwell explains, "is the task of picking proper background music. This is a job in itself. Bob Searle helps in this respect by occasionally writing original background music."

The guild is looking forward to its future new campus facilities, which will include a regular station capable of reaching almost anywhere in the Bay Area.

"That the United States should nationalize the basic non-agricultural industries" is the subject chosen by the members of the Speakers' Bureau for an intercollegiate debate topic. Members have been meeting in small groups to discuss the topic and to make plans for debating with other colleges.

Clock-Eyed



Time Never Marches

Clocks Mad! Student Reels Misses Class, Begs Repeal

By RAOUL G. SOSA, Jr.

I am not by nature a violent man, but when I overtake the fellow in charge of winding the clocks, I'm going to overhaul him. I'm going to give him such a pummeling he never will forget to wind his own business. That man is undermining my curriculum.

At home I have a Big Ben, and I want to tell you that son-of-a-timekeeper is like a second mother to me. That clock spanks me out of the sack every morning, or noon, without fail. That clock is more dependable than Coaltown.

As for the clocks in this college, they are worse maladjusted than a five-cinch-notice-student. One clock clicks off Pacific Standard time, another Rocky Mountain time and still another Confusion time. One runs forward, three hours to the good, another backwards, four hours delinquent. The other one refuses to run.

It's gotten to where I'll have to start packing Big Ben with my lunch.

On account of the clock-keeper I've missed two 9 a.m. classes and one 2 p.m. class this semester. But the coup de grace, which is French for faux pas, occurred yesterday morning.

BIG BEN BONGS

As per usual, Big Ben was on all six, and when he started blowing his top I didn't hesitate to pull off the covers. I wanted to grab a good seat in the back for the term quiz.

I am now checking in the classroom, and just as promptly I am checking right out. The clock is holding hands at 25 minutes to eight, and the class doesn't start till nine. I figure I have an hour and a half to rest my eyes.

I am in a corner of the library now, and I am having one of those once-in-a-lifetime dreams. To be exact, I am fighting for the world's heavyweight championship, and at the moment the champ hasn't laid a glove on me. That's because the fight hasn't started.

It's the second round now, and I've got the champ looking like one of Dali's limp watches. I'm about to administer the soporific . . . when the bell rings. I can still hear it.

I'm jumping from my stool and I'm looking at the clock, and I'm blinking. The bell is still ringing, and the clock says 4 O'CLOCK!

I LOVE SLEEP, BUT—

I'm admitting right out that I like my sleep, but I'm certain I never slept no eight hours! Calculating that maybe it's the clock and not me that is off, I'm jet-propulsioning my way back to the 9 a.m. class.

I'm walking into the classroom now, and I'm getting that funny feeling in my stomach, on account of all the students and the instructor are walking right out.

The clock is still holding hands at 25 minutes to eight!

I guess I'm a cinch for a notice now, because when the teacher inquired where the heck I've been, I slipped up and replied that I was down at the library "fighting for the heavyweight title . . ."

Has anybody seen the clock-winder?

FILE THIRTEEN

By A. ALLAN MARTINEZ, Jr.

Whoever drives the mule in the Co-op should take their Junior rangers in hand and show them the ropes of courtesy. Since the matter was brought to light a few issues ago, there has been absolutely no improvement in the modus operandi of the Co-op flunkees. As members of the Associated Students we have a right to DEMAND that something be done now. We suggest that our Board of Directors write a letter to their Co-op employees stating as much. And we'd like to use that letter for publication.

BIG FISH, BIG POND—Big Fish Carolyn Trusty left Little Pond SFSC last term to enter Big Pond UC. Expecting the worst from the big, bad bear, she labored up until midterm recently without let-up. Came an exam in journalism. She took it. She passed it—man! how she passed it! Her grade was A-plus. How's that for a big fish from a little pond?

GEMS OF WORDOME—At the WSSF conference Jim Hatchett sat through a particularly long and intellectual talk. At the conclusion he made a hasty exit to the men's room, where he said, "I was beginning to wonder which was the stronger—his knowledge or my kidneys."

GOING UP!—John Wolohan's musical syndicate set the heart-beats of the on-lookers going in a jumpy rhythm last Thursday, as Staters saw what proved to be one of the finest rallies ever brought to Buchanan Heights. The balancing, rhythmical "Dominoes," Bob Parker and Don Pettigrew, gave out with a performance that was a symphony in muscular art. The majorettes from College of Marin added their bit of eye-inspiring antics to the affair. However, let's not forget the man behind the stage, Activities Commissioner Jim Schwerdt, who worked long and hard to make the rally a tremendous success.

WSSF-ING—A cat stole the limelight at the recent World Student Service Fund conference at Mills College. He drank tea during the key-note talks and scared the living charity out of some of the delegates by climbing up their legs. He had this to say of the convention: meow!

TOO MANY ISMS—The American Legion, in a recent pamphlet,* warned the public against accepting any of the current isms. On the back page of the pamphlet, in small print, was written, "Sponsored by the AmericanISM Committee." (Thanks to Elaine Plasberg.)

SOME JOKER pinned this notice on the bulletin board in Frederic Burk, which we reproduce in part: "Psychologists Arise! Defy the palpable untruths of 'objective' scientists. Expose the astronomers' fiasco! The earth and moon do not revolve around the sun." After presenting an argument, he says, "The sun and moon and earth, psychologisis, revolve around payday. Payday is the true center of the universe. We reckon time from it. It is the source of food and comfort. It assures us a welcome at home . . . Defy the crass materialism of astronomers and others. Remember—ALL THINGS REVOLVE AROUND PAYDAY!"

A GREATER GATER — Two Kathies (Gruner and Simpson) and one Marilyn Layne advocated the enlargement of the Golden Gater as they sat in the sun. "Yes," they chimed, "we want a bigger Gater." The reason, however, became apparent as they stood up. "Big enough, at least, for three people to sit on." HAIL, ALL, HAIL.

Victorious Gaters Back Home!

▶ SPORTS REVIEW ◀

By FRANK GALO, Sports Editor

Big Time Welcome to Greet Victorious Gaters; Nickie Cornish and Co. to Lead Inspired Rooters

Hail the conquering heroes!

The Gaters are home after a three weeks journey into the outer lands of Chico, San Luis Obispo and Arcata and are working on a winning streak. What a welcome they'll get!

Things get underway tonight with a huge bon fire rally slated for the new campus. According to Toni Robinson, two characters from the airlanes will headline the show—Ira Blue and Carroll Hansen.

Tomorrow at 2:30 State's soccer team plays USF for the number one spot in the league. Then the cross country team swings into action against the Cal Aggies. John Holden, State's all-time distance runner, is really something to watch. Even the high school kids will get in the act when 20 potential Gaters will display their punting and passing ability before the varsity tilt and during halftime.

After the athletic festivities, Gater rooters will meet at the Block S dance. So says Bob Callan and Jim Johnston, the Block Society drumbeaters.

The gridiron festivities will not lack color for there will be a Homecoming Queen. John Kjol tells us that Al, the Hamburger King, may be king, since he holds the down box at all jayvee tilts.

Meanwhile, Dick Boyle's gridsters will need a lot of spirit to bowl over the Cal Aggies. The football team has a lot of spirit. Bobby Keropian told us so before the Humboldt game. Now it's up to the student body to show their gratitude for Bob's fellow gridsters.

Number one rooter for State's gridiron heroes is a lovely blonde package bulging with personality—Nickie Cornish. Miss Cornish and her aides are to be lauded for their fine spirit. The young ladies in question are Xandra Jorgenson (Homecoming Queen candidate, we hear), Jacque Gagnon from Analy High and Barbara Blair. The latter is quite a versatile girl. Bobbie leads yells for the rugged football team then plays the violin for a delicate audience. Quite a gal. Apparently the female clientele at State got a little envious at these four lovelies, as evidenced by the addition of two male yell leaders, Jack Shriber and Jim Bereth.

The yell leaders will make Homecoming Day a success with their spirit. Will you?

J.V. GRIDSTERS BATTLE MARIN TO 13-13 TIE

Coach Ward Carr's junior varsity team battled Marin JC's juniormen to a 13-13 tie last Saturday night at Cox Stadium. The Gaters at one time possessed a 13-0 lead, but superior manpower changed this.

The Gaters scored on their first drive with Len Johnson sneaking over from the one. This drive was marked by a 24-yard dash by Johnson. The second Gater tally came on a Frank Farella to Ron Bloom pass.

CROSS COUNTRY

Holden-led Gaters Clash With Aggies

By ADOLPH KELLY

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 every loyal student at State is expected to be present at Cox Stadium to witness the greatest cross country meet of the season. The Gaters meet their oldest rivals, Cal Aggies.

The cross country men need the support of the whole student body. Come out and give your runners a reward for their virtues. Show those runners from Cal that you are proud of our own cross country team.

There is approximately one student out of 365 at State who runs the cross country race.

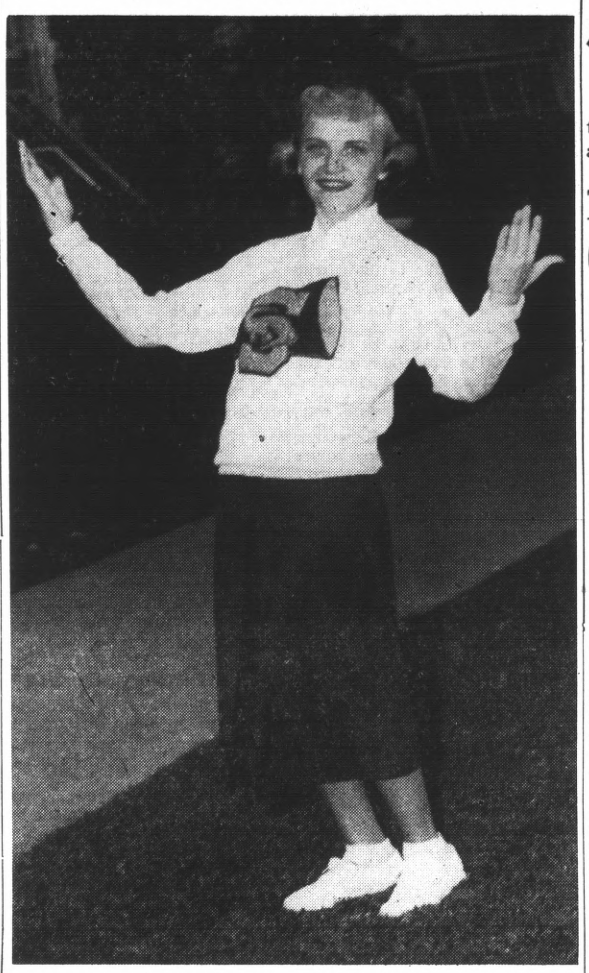
State's endurance men outpointed the cross country men from Sacramento by seven points on Thursday, October 27.

The Gaters were led by John Holden, who placed first and set a new school record for the three and one-half miles. Holden's time was 19 minutes and 11 seconds. Placing third, fourth, fifth and eighth were Dave Vickers, Dale Sharp, Bert Stasser and Roy Walden.

Top honors go to Bob Cunningham, one of State's top cross country runners, who didn't place but was a threat for the first three miles and had to stop because of leg injuries.

Other promising runners that should be lauded for a job well done are Raymond Curiel, Hank Fineman, Bruce Gibbel, Harvey Roscelli, Tom Kellog and Adolph Kelly. Most of these men started late in the season but are improving.

LET'S GO, GATERS!



LOVELY NICKIE CORNISH goes through a practice routine of her yells in preparation for Homecoming Day tomorrow. There'll be plenty to yell about—soccer, cross country, prep contest and, of course, football. (Photo by Andy Ferrari.)

Ex-Washington Belle Leads Gaters' Rooting Section

By FRED HODEL

"I think the kids will show a lot of spirit and win the Homecoming game tomorrow with Cal Aggies."

This optimistic view was voiced by Miss Nickie Cornish, head yell leader of San Francisco State College. Nickie further qualified her statement and added:

"I know most of the fellows on the team because I have traveled with them, and I'm certain that they will put forth their greatest efforts for this game."

Five foot two, eyes of blue, best describe the cute Nickie Cornish. She graduated from Washington High School here in San Francisco in June of 1947. She was active in the Tri Y in Washington High. She entered S. F. State in the fall semester of 1947.

She began to lead yells soon after her enrollment because "I had an interest in it." She continued to be interested in it and this semester was elected as head yell leader. She is now avidly "interested in building school spirit."

Miss Cornish, a drama major, is very active in various stage productions here at San Francisco State. She has been seen in such productions as "Beggar on Horseback," "Kampus Kapers of '49," and "Rehearsal." She has been active also in many other aspects of the theater, such as stage crew, makeup crew and so forth.

Nickie's spirit and loyalty was in great evidence in last year's Fruit Bowl tilt when despite a very wet afternoon, she inspired the sparse gathering with many a lusty yell.

Nickie is ably assisted in her yell leading chores by Barbara "Bobbie" Blair, Jacque Gagnon, Xandra Jorgensen, Jim Bereth and Jack Shriber. An interesting sidelight on the yell leaders is that three of them are blondes and three are brunettes. and a further coincidence is three attended high schools in San Francisco and three attended schools in the East Bay.

When asked about the growth of school spirit as a whole since her arrival at State, Nickie said, "I think school spirit has improved a hundred fold since I first came here, and from all indications it should continue to improve."

Herb Fulda Stars as His Maulers Drop 14-8 Game

By VIC GIANNINI

Having already passed the far turn and coming now into the home stretch, State's intramural touch football league continued on its course with a week of highlights.

The game of the week showed the Kappa Theta squad edging out the Maulers, 14-8. Really a thriller from the word go, and ending only after the final whistle, the Kappa Thetas played a fine brand of ball. Amos Atkins passed to Hal Athowe for two touchdowns, while Herb Fulda, who played a terrific passing game for the Maulers, threw to George Albrecht for their lone touchdown. Earl Boles of Kappa was thrown in his own end zone for a safety to provide all the scoring.

Kappa Omega Blacks' defending champions continued to reign the roost by turning back Delta Gamma Tau by a 21-0 margin. Anderson, Lou Pappas and Gus Buono accounted for the Omega's scoring.

Alpha Zeta Sigma took the measure of Sigma Pi Sigma, 7-0. A hard fought battle from the start, Alpha Zetas Art Valverde plucked a Sigma pass from the air and ran it over for the deciding factor.

Balboa A. C. took the measure of the Fillmore A. C., 7-6, and Bib 'n' Tucker edged out the Old Man's A. C., 6-0, in the remaining games.

Player of the Week

Player of the Week for the past week is HERB FULDA of the Maulers, who through his brilliant passing and defensive game was the unanimous choice of the Commissioners. Fulda was a former prep football and basketball star at Lowell. He started the intramural season playing for Balboa A. C. before joining the Maulers.

State Humbles Humboldt, Spirit 'High' For Aggies

In the Humboldt tussle the first stanza was scoreless, but in the second the fuse was ignited and State tallied three times and the Axemen once. State's touchdowns went like this:

A pass from Don Lowart to Bob Keropian netted 40 yards. Then Lowart smashed over through center. Moments later Gater end Bill Wuerch recovered a fumble. Penalties and a QB sneak by Lowart resulted in another TD. Both times Deselarnos converted.

Stunned by a quick Humboldt pass play which gave the Northerners their first score, the Gaters came back with a pass from Jack Caruso to Don Chabot, good for 30 yards. Then Sam DeVito leaped in the air to toss an end zone pass to Bob Kroeckel.

State led 20-7 at the half. They added another in the first few minutes of the third period. Chabot picked off a Humboldt pass and rambled from the hometowners' 20 to the 5. A jump pass from DeVito to Chabot netted the final State tally.

With a 26-7 bulge the Gater's got carefree. Humboldt racked up two quick touchdowns, both made by a grease-hipped halfback, Ed Oleveira. The final coming on a 20-yard reverse play that found Oleveira slipping through the entire secondary standing up.

State played before 200 Aahmes Temple Shriners from Oakland. They hooped and hollered and had a fine band going full blast. It was a rooting section as no college ever had.

The outstanding feature of the tilt was the great improvement shown in the forward wall. For fellows who seldom are given the credit deserved, it might be well to mention "Cub" Rubio and Maury Koch, the scrappy centers; Steve Morger, Art Chaboya, Jack Newell, Bob Hagen, Dick Peters and Ray Bell. Then, of course, "Doc" Mattison seemed to be at the bottom of every pile.

According to reliable sources, the outcome of the game will depend on the line, especially the middle of it. So far the backfield has been more consistent than the forward wall.

Gaters Meet USF In Soccer Crucial

Feibusch Named Captain For Tomorrow's Titanic

By JOHN KJOL

Tomorrow afternoon the Gater soccer team will celebrate Homecoming Day by taking on undefeated USF in a crucial contest slated for 2:30 at the new campus.

Ernie Feibusch has been selected as captain for the all-important game, which may well decide the league championship.

State goes into the fray working on a three game winning streak after tying City College and dropping a "closie" to California. USF is sporting an unblemished record in three starts. On a basis of two points for a win and one for a tie, the rampaging Gaters are leading the league.

Last Saturday the local booters defeated Stanford, 3-0, in a sloppy, unexciting game. Scoring for the Gaters were Bob Cannon, Tom Collins and Pete Dalton. Collins, the St. Louis Kid, now leads the Gater offense for the year with five goals to his credit.

On defense Feibusch and Walt Pudlowski looked very good; however, one can't fail to praise Tony Fernandez, the goalie, for his many stops during the game.

Getting back to tomorrow's tilt, USF has many established stars. There's Steve Neogowski (All-American and All-Conference), Fumni, a lad from Nigeria; and Dick Baptista, great center forward. These men will have to be stopped in order to pave the way for a Purple and Gold victory.

Coach Jerry Kenney stated, "that the college soccer game of the year will be played tomorrow," and predicts a Gater win.

The record between the two schools shows USF on top with four wins, a loss and two ties.

Probable starting lineup for State: Fernandez, g; Stortie, f; Huber, f; Pudlowski, ch.; Luther, rh; Keropian, lh; Cannon or Collins, ir; Sonnenfeld, cf; Feibusch, il; and Dalton, ol.

WAA TENNIS TEAM

Last Saturday the Women's Athletic Association tennis team journeyed to Mills College, where they met their tennis team. State lost all their singles matches and then bounced back to win the doubles play.

In the singles play Mariann Bruneman fought hard but lost to Missy Yoell, 4-6, 4-6. Barbara Bane lost to Ann McKinstry, 2-6, 1-6, and Ollie Anson lost to Kay Hunt, 1-6, 06. In doubles, Carrie Horvath and Mary Kazas defeated Evelyn Spratt and Shelly Wessel, 6-4, 6-4, and Scoop Tullis and Jeanne Contel defeated Sally McKinstry and Nada Davies, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

Wes Olson Captures Coast Fencing Title; Coleman 4th

Wes Olson, State College fencer, won the prep Northern Pacific Coast championship last Friday at the University of California men's gym.

Olson won the championship by winning 14 out of 15 matches. His only loss was dealt to him by another State fencer, Bill Coleman, who subsequently annexed fourth place. This loss placed Olson in a tie for first place, which he finally won by a five-two margin.

This was not an intercollegiate bout but an amateur fencing league of America bout. The Stanford match scheduled for October 27 was fought last night.

Olson is to receive a gold medal from the league for his stellar performance. Next week Olson, representing State, will fence in the novice foils. This will take place on November 4 at the YMCA. Olson is favored to win this match in light of his previous performance.

The San Francisco State wrestlers will participate in an all-novice tournament at San Jose State on Saturday, November 19, at 4 p.m.

Professor Kasten Receives Art Award

Professor Karl Kasten of the Art Department was recently awarded the first prize of $500 for his "Hide and Seek" oil painting. The award was made at the Walnut Creek festival and art show.

Mr. Kasten started the painting in Iowa last summer, where he was studying etching with Mauricio Lanzansky, and completed it some time after his return to California.

The painting depicts that element of society which goes through life playing games, never realizing that life is earnest, and ignoring the basic truths of human relationships. Such people remain adolescents to their dying day.

The painting itself is abstract. However, adult figures may be discerned playing hide and seek. One figure is shielding his eyes while the others are scurrying to a hiding place.

Mr. Kasten says he will continue to paint in oil and possibly do some more commentary paintings. He enjoys working from still-life and landscape.

At present he is working on an oi to be submitted to the San Francisco Art Association annual exhibit next Spring.

Another award of $100 went to Juliette Steele, formerly on the faculty of the California School of Fine Arts, and presently working for a teaching credential at State. Miss Steele's prize was for water color.

STUDENT AID

$4 Million Dollars Granted Chinese

A sum of four million dollars has been granted to Chinese students in the United States, according to a letter received by Mr. Hugh Baker, adviser for overseas students, from the State Department recently.

The letter continues: "While the Government of the United States has no specific responsibility for providing financial assistance to foreign students in this country, recent political and economic developments in China justify the continuation of this program, which was originally requested by the Republic of China."

This amount is to cover tuition, maintenance and travel, limited to a sum that enables the student to get an approved educational objective, and to obtain a return passage to China, "when that is practicable."

More information about qualifications and application blanks may be obtained by appointment with Mr. Hugh Baker, Room 206-B, College Hall.
